HURRICANES

ALL-AMERICANS TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE

Since its first season of intercollegiate competition in 1973, the University of Miami women's tennis team has been awarded 37 All-American awards from the USTA (1973-78), AIAW (1978-81) and NCAA (1982-Present).

In the decade of the 1980's, the Hurricanes produced at least one All-American player each season. In each of the 1984, '85, and '86 seasons, the Hurricanes had four players earn All-American recognition.

Three players, Jodi Applebaum, Lise Gregory and Ronni Reis, were named All-Americans for every year in which they played. Marlin Noriega, Ros Riach and Cathy Richman earned the honor three times.

In 2004, Megan Bradley became the first player to be named All-American since the 1999 season. Bradley finished fifth in the nation after becoming the first Miami player to advance to the semifinals of the NCAA Individual Championship since 1988 when Ronni Reis fell in the semifinals 6-1, 7-6 (5) to Shaun Stafford of Florida. Bradley's 37-6 record also posted the best singles record for a season in Miami history. She became a member of the 50 win club with a 54-15 record after only two seasons with the Hurricanes.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

Miami women's tennis teams have advanced to the NCAA Championship Tournament 16 out of the last 20 seasons, including nine consecutive times since the 1995-96 season.

The 1985 squad earned a trip to the NCAA team finals and finished the year as the nation's No. 2 ranked team. That team also posted a record of 29-6, marking the best dual match mark in women's tennis team history at UM.

The 1986 squad went 19-4 and advanced to the NCAA semifinals before finishing the year with a No. 3 national ranking.

In 1977, Jody Applebaum and Terry Salganik won the USTA Doubles Championship, the first national title for a UM women's doubles pair. The following season Applebaum returned to USTA Doubles finals with teammate Kim Sands; the duo finished second.

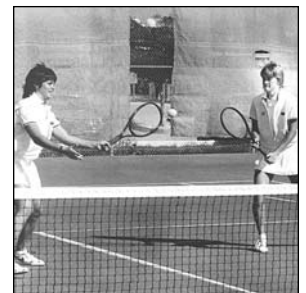

In 1985, Ronnie Reis and Lise Gregory became the first Miami players to capture an ITA National Indoor Championship doubles title. The following year, they cemented their names in the history books with Miami's first ever NCAA doubles title.

Last season, the Hurricanes stunned the No. 1 ranked University of Florida Gators at the NCAA Regionals in Gainesville, Fla. The win, which is seen as arguably the biggest upset in women's tennis history, was also the first time the Hurricanes defeated the Gators since the 1986 season. Miami advanced to the Elite Eight after defeating No. 11 Tulane, 4-1, in the Sweet Sixteen. The Hurricanes fell to No. 8 UCLA, 4-3, to finish the season ranked 15th in the country.

Megan Bradley became the first Miami player to advance to the semifinals since the 1988 season at the 2004 NCAA Singles Tennis Championship. During her run in the NCAA tournament Bradley improved her record to 37-6 to become the all-time single season win leader at Miami.
