Key Returnees:

- Tiffany Chan (Jr., Nevada City, Calif.) 9.853 RQS on FX, USAG champion on FX... Only Aggie to break 9.900 on FX in 2003.
- Nicole Doherty (Jr., San Rafael, Calif.) 9.625 RQS, 9.627 overall average on BB... Scored season-high 38.475 in AA.

Key Losses:

- Flora Bare (Santa Cruz, Calif.) Nine-time USAG All-American... Holds UC Davis mark in all-around (39.200) and shares school record on FX (9.950) and V (9.900)
- Lynn Schwaebe (Leucadia, Calif.) 2003 USAG champion on UB... Was only Aggie to surpass 9.800 barrier on UB in 2003.

2004 SEASON PREVIEW

In many respects, a glance at the upcoming UC Davis women's gymnastics season inspires one to paraphrase the lofty words of President Kennedy: the torch has been passed to a new generation of Aggies.

Last year, the program graduated five seniors who had combined for 15 USAG All-America awards during their careers. The previous year's senior class – also comprising five athletes – had garnered 16 such awards.

"We've lost 10 people who were the bulk of the team," says UC Davis head coach Ray Goldbar. "They were basically on every event of the last three years. But four years ago, those 10 people were in the same position that this year's freshmen and sophomores are in."

Indeed, of the 19 names on this year's Aggie roster, 14 are classified as either freshman or sophomore eligibility.

Even Heidi Bortfeld and Amber Weddell, who are seniors academically, have competed for just one year at UC Davis. Bortfeld transferred from UC Santa Barbara and was a regular in last year's balance beam lineup. Weddell came to UC

Davis from rival Seattle Pacific, earned All-America honors on beam in 2002, but sat out the entire 2003 season due to injury.

A third senior, Valerie Yep, is the only member of the team to have competed for UC Davis in each of the last three seasons. She gave the vault squad a much-needed boost near the end of last year, coming back from injuries that had sidelined her since February of 2002.

Thus, the most experienced Aggies on the 2004 roster are two juniors, Tiffany Chan and Nicole Doherty.

Chan has captured the USAG title on floor exercise in each of her first two years. She has also scored 9.900 or higher on that event eight times in her career – more than any other gymnast in program history.

Doherty emerged as the team's workhorse in 2003, competing on bars and beam in every meet and even appearing as an all-arounder in four meets. She was hardly immune to the injury bug that hit the team last season, but waited until the offseason to undergo treatment.

"It has taken Nicole a while to get back," said Goldbar. "If she can do vault and floor, that's fine. But we want her to bolster our bars and beam. Tiffany's role will be to solidify vault and floor. That's how I see their roles.

"Among the upperclassmen, Tiffany and Nicole were the two most consistent last year," he added.

Chan and Doherty will lead a group of veterans whose experience may be relatively short on quantity (see box, page 2) but high on quality. Sophomores Mei Ling Clark, Arianne Furman, Sophia Chaban, Hanna Anderson and Sabrina Seus represented UC Davis during the final weeks of the season, when the Aggies competed in the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation Championships and the USAG Collegiate Nationals. In fact, Clark, Furman and Chaban each scored at least one season-best mark during the team prelims at nationals.

This should be encouraging to Goldbar, who considers his standing at the national meet as his primary goal.

"We always try to get into a position to qualify for USAG nationals. And we don't just try to make it as one of the eight teams, we like to feel that we'll be in the top three," Goldbar said. "Surely, we would have done that last year if we didn't have so many injuries. As it was, we were only three-tenths from qualifying for the finals."

The former USAG Coach of the Year will tap the freshman class to aid that pursuit. In particular, the trio of Joanne Pizzo, Julia Richards and Carrie Lujan has shown the most promise in the preseason. Each is expected contribute on all four events and may make a few appearances as all-arounders during the season.

Pizzo graduated from Armijo HS in Fairfield, but in many ways is a hometown product: she competed for the Davis Gymnastics Club. Richards comes to the Aggie program from the same high school (Nevada Union) and club (Rising Starz) as Chan. Lujan hails from Salinas, Calif., where she was a Level 10 state and regional finalist for Elite Gymnastics Academy.

The Aggies also welcome the return from injuries of Kelsie Kear and Megan Nakagawa in 2004. Kear, who transferred from Arizona State, turned in solid performances on vault and floor before suffering a season-ending injury in early February.

Nakagawa sat out the entire 2003 season due to injury. Both her credentials – a two-time state vault champion for Airborne Gymnastics – and her preseason training make her a promising prospect for the upcoming year.

ALL-AROUND

Doherty scored as high as 38.425 in her four all-around outings last year, but her comeback from injuries may limit her to bars and beam. Furman competed in the all-around in five meets last year, but she is also primarily a bars/beam specialist. They are the only Aggie returnees who made all-around appearances last year.

This leaves any potential four-event chores to the freshman class. Pizzo, Richards and Lujan are the most likely candidates to make all four events, according to Goldbar.

"That's just the nature of the program right now," he says. "It will change next year when we begin giving full scholarships because everybody we give a full scholarship to should be in the all-around."

VAULT

Although Chan is best known as a floor performer, she also brings her dazzling athletic abilities to the vault runway. She appeared in the vault lineup 11 times, including at nationals.

"Tiffany is potentially our best vaulter," said Goldbar. "She still has some things to learn, but if she figures it out, she should have a 10.0 vault. She's very athletic."

Pizzo and Richards both should make an immediate impact in this event as

* - includes individual appearances (e.g. NCAA West Regional, USAG Event Finals), excludes exhibition appearances freshmen. Each gymnast brings a 9.9-value vault to the program.

The main concern for Goldbar is to get his squad performing higher-scoring vaults. He has considerable depth on this apparatus, so filling the six slots in the lineup will be those who can incorporate more difficulty. Furman, Bortfeld, Kear and Clark each saw time on vault last season and will vie for action in this year's lineup. Anderson, a bars/beam specialist last season, might see action on vault as well.

"Our challenge is to get them to 9.9 or 10.0," said Goldbar. "They came in working on 9.8 vaults: handspring tuck fronts, layout Tsukuharas, layout Yurchenkos. They don't have a lot of experience working the harder vaults."

Junior Nicole Doherty was arguably the most consistent and most durable Aggie in 2003. She competed in bars and beam in all 13 meets last year, and appeared in the floor lineup in all but one meet.

True freshman Carrie Lujan and redshirt freshman Megan Nakagawa should compete for time on vault, depending on how they develop during the preseason.

"Carrie Lujan is a good vaulter but we need to get some difficulty for her," Goldbar said. "Megan Nakagawa was hurt last year but her layout Yurchenko is really solid. We're trying to get her to do something harder but we're being very cautious."

UNEVEN BARS

In recent years, the success of the bars squad has largely dictated the overall success of the team. Small wonder then, that the majority of the program's highest uneven bars scores came in the 1999 and 2001 seasons, in which the Aggies finished 1st and 2nd, respectively, at the USAG nationals.

"Bars is always the biggest challenge for our team and most college teams," he says. "It's an event that is the most difficult to start at a high value."

Thus, the amount of time assistant coach Ron Manara has spent with the bars squad will pay dividends in 2004. According to Goldbar, it is probably the team's most improved event.

Furman and Doherty are the most experienced returnees to this apparatus. Chaban, who broke into the bars lineup midway through the 2003 season, has worked hard to add a major release to her routine. Anderson and Clark both have made great strides during the fall and should see action on bars this season. Weddell has also progressed on bars and may see time in the lineup.

Freshmen Brandi Forte and Nickie Bykhovsky both entered the program with high-value routines. When healthy, Bykhovsky performs two major releases – a Shaposhnikova and a Gienger – but previous injuries may slow her return. Carolyn Kampf, another freshman, also has a potentially high-value routine but her injuries will delay her return. Pizzo and Lujan should contribute on bars as well.

BALANCE BEAM

To the delight of both Goldbar and assistant coach Hilde Aune, UC Davis boasts a great deal of talent at this event, both from experienced veterans and incoming freshmen.

Among the upperclassmen, Weddell won USAG All-America honors on beam two seasons ago. Bortfeld and Doherty were two of the only three Aggies to compete on beam in all 13 meets last year.

"Our seniors provide quality routines and experience," Goldbar said. "Nicole was one of our key people last year and she's still doing well."

Sophomores Furman, Anderson and Seus have also shown fine progress on beam, and should see time in the lineup. Kear made one appearance in exhibition last year but she looks ready to move into the starting six.

The trio of Pizzo, Richards and Lujan will make significant contributions on beam, as will Nakagawa. A relative dark horse in the event is Chan, who has competed on beam just once in her career – as an emergency fill-in.

"Tiffany is probably our best beam performer in terms of amplitude and performance," Goldbar said. "We're trying to get her an acro that she's comfortable with. She could be a valuable part of the beam team."

FLOOR EXERCISE

A two-time national champion, Chan will again be expected to lead a floor team that, like beam, comprises a fine mixture of veterans and newcomers.

The Aggies are loaded with freshmen who are particularly strong in this event. Lujan, Pizzo and Richards bring high-level tumbling to the program, as do Kampf and RoseAnn Braunstein.

Junior Tiffany Chan hopes to win her third straight USAG floor exercise title. She was the only Aggie to score a 9.900 or higher on floor last year, a feat she has performed eight times in two years.

Doherty competed on floor in all but one meet in 2003. Although her role will primarily be as a bars/beam specialist, she looks to step up her routine and contribute in this event.

Clark joined the floor squad midway through 2003 and posted a 9.800 at nationals. She and Nakagawa will help solidify the lineup. Furman and Anderson will also provide depth on floor.

Kear also looks to make her comeback to floor exercise after her early-season injury in 2003. "She did a nice job last year. She's a good performer," Goldbar said. "We just need to get her back to where she was. It might take two or three meets into the season before she's ready."

TEAM SCORING

Six gymnasts are allowed to compete in any one event, with the top five individual scores being combined for a team score. The maximum team score for a meet is 200 points, 50 for each of four events.

UC Davis' best score in history was 193.700, the winning score in the team final at the 1999 USA Gymnastics Collegiate Nationals.

INDIVIDUAL SCORING

A gymnast is judged on how well she executes skills and movements, combined with the level of difficulty in which she attempts them. All gymnastics skills are given a specific difficulty rating, from A (easiest) to E (most difficult).

Routines will generally have a starting value of a 10.0, assuming the gymnast has fulfilled basic routine requirements, and depending on the amount of difficulty and bonus combination.

The more difficult skills generally create a greater chance of falling from an apparatus. Additionally, all skills should be executed with little error. Simple deductions are for loss of balance, bent arms or legs and shaky landings. A fall from an apparatus is an automatic 0.5-point deduction.

In short, the highest scores will be awarded to the gymnasts who have the greatest amount of difficulty with the best execution and the least amount of error.

VAULT

In collegiate competition, vaults fall into three categories: handsprings, forward saltos and backward saltos. Each vault is assigned a starting value up to 10.0. Deductions from this value are based on technical errors in pre-flight (approach to the horse), repulsion (rise off the horse) and after-flight (distance and height from the horse).

Upon landing, the gymnast must remain motionless or further deductions will be taken. In 2001, a rule was implemented in which each gymnast gets only one attempt on the vault.

UNEVEN BARS

A complete routine on the uneven parallel bars comprises 10 to 15 moves, consisting of swinging and suspension skills utilizing both bars with many regrasps. A change of direction is required in the routine, while pauses for concentration, extra or intermediate swings, and other uncharacteristic elements result in deduction.

Bonus portions worth up to 0.5 points can be awarded for completing skills with assigned bonus values. Such bonus maneuvers include, but are not limited to, somersaulting and release moves, difficult pirouette work and somersaulting dismounts. The dismount must be of 'C' value or higher.

BALANCE BEAM

In this event, a gymnast essentially performs a floor routine on a runway that is four feet high and four inches wide. The routine comprises elements from the following groups: tumbling with and without flight, strength and dance.

Special requirements on the balance beam are a tumbling series, a leap or large jump, a full turn and a series of skills combining dance and acrobatics.

The routine must last no longer than 90 seconds. Deductions are taken for breaks in balance, while bonus points are granted for layout somersaults, multiple skills in a series and jumps showing maximum flexibility. Like on bars, the dismount must be of 'C' value or higher.

FLOOR EXERCISE

The floor exercise combines dance, tumbling and acrobatics set to musical accompaniment. Creative and dynamic changes in rhythm and energy levels help create an exciting routine in which the composition plays an important role.

Like on beam, the exercise may last up to but no longer than 90 seconds. The gymnast must balance the difficulty of both her tumbling skills and dance skills, and should finish as strongly as she starts.

Bonus points are awarded for multiple somersaults, combinations of somersaults and certain unique dance elements. Deductions are taken for stepping out of bounds or for performing out of sync with the music. Furthermore, the final tumbling pass must contain one 'C' element.

RAY GOLDBAR

Head Coach • 15th Year

Essentially the founder of intercollegiate gymnastics at UC Davis, Goldbar enters his 15th year at the helm of Aggie women's gymnastics. In 1974, he started the men's and women's varsity gymnastics programs at UC Davis, elevating both from club status.

Goldbar served as head coach for the UC Davis men's team before the program was dropped from varsity status in 1987. He took over the women's program in 1989.

In 1999, Goldbar closed his first decade as head women's gymnastics coach in proper style – by winning the school's first USA Gymnastics Collegiate national title. He also was named USAG Collegiate Coach of the Year.

His leadership later enabled UC Davis to host the national meet in 2001. The Aggies finished second in the meet, and captured three of the five individual titles. In fact, UC Davis has won at least two individual national championships every year from 2000 to 2003.

Goldbar guided the Aggie program into a new era in 1994 when women's gymnastics became a Division I sport at UC Davis. Since then, his teams posted two third-place finishes at USA Gymnastics nationals before reaching the ultimate goal in 1999. The Aggies added another third-place trophy at last year's meet in Springfield, Mass.

While trying to improve the program to compete at Division I, the Aggies have maintained the consistency necessary to compete among the top teams who participate in the USAG nationals. In 1998, UC Davis qualified for the West Regional, making its first appearance as a team in NCAA D-I postseason. That squad remains the only non-scholarship team ever to compete in the NCAA gymnastics championships.

In his 11 years with the women's program, his teams have had four individual national champions, three Heitman Award winners (given to the top female athlete of the year at UC Davis regardless of sport) and 19 individual All-Americans. In 2000, former national champion Jill Henrie was inducted into the Cal Aggie Athletic Hall of Fame, becoming the first gymnast from Goldbar's tenure as women's coach to earn that honor.

Goldbar also personifies the UC Davis ideal of having its coaches be outstanding educators as well. He served as assistant vice chair of the physical education department (later exercise science) and has taught numerous lecture courses in addition to his activity classes.

Born January 2, 1941 in Van Nuys, Calif., Goldbar graduated from Sacramento State in 1964 with a degree in physical education. His wife, Molly, is also active in gymnastics and serves as meet director at Aggie home events.

RON MANARA

Assistant Coach • 3rd Year

Coach Manara enters his third year at UC Davis after a diverse career as a coach, athlete, proprietor and state-rated judge. He works primarily with uneven bars, but is involved in all aspects of the program, including recruiting.

In 2001, his first year as bars coach, the Aggies scored three of its all-time top 10 scores and captured two USAG All-America awards in that event.

Manara's most high-profile experience came during the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles, for which he served as site supervisor. Manara later held the post of chief of security for the 1991 World Games in Indianapolis.

The majority of Manara's coaching career took place around his alma mater of UC Irvine, from which he graduated with a degree in humanities. He was the owner of the Irvine School of Gymnastics for 23 years before beginning his collegiate coaching career at Cal St. Fullerton. Manara was assistant coach of the Titans women's team and head coach of the Titans Juniors youth program from 1997 until last year.

HILDE AUNE

Assistant Coach • 7th Year

Now in her seventh year with the Aggie program, Aune provides a strong international background in gymnastics. She works primarily with the beam squad. In 2002, she mentored her first career USAG champion when Stacy Wong captured a share of the beam title at the national meet. Aune's beam squad featured four All-Americans in 2002 as Amber Weddell, Flora Bare and Michelle Naito also advanced to the event final.

A native of Norway, Aune was active as a teacher, coach and judge in the Norwegian Gymnastics Federation throughout her career. She came to the U.S. in 1991, becoming involved in club programs in the Salt Lake City area.

Aune graduated from the University of Oslo and the Norwegian College of Sports in 1980 with majors in mathematics and physical education. She also has completed course work toward a graduate degree from the University of Oslo and has published two books.

She and her husband, James Major, run a local gym called The Davis Diamonds.

UC DAVIS GYMNASTICS CLUB

Individuals of all abilities are encouraged to further their interest in gymnastics through the UC Davis Gymnastics Club. The club, which is administered through the UC Davis Sports Clubs and Intramurals Office, offers opportunities for both men and women to develop their skills while also providing opportunities for competition.

Individuals interested in the UC Davis Gymnastics Club can call the UC Davis Sports Clubs and Intramurals Office at (530) 752-3500.

TRANSITION TO DIVISION I

On March 11, 2003, UC Davis made a historic move in its storied intercollegiate athletics history when it announced that it would reclassify from NCAA Division II to NCAA Division I status and join the Big West Conference. The announcement came after much discussion by campus administrators, faculty, staff and students, as well as alumni and the local community.

Additionally, UC Davis undergraduate students passed the Campus Expansion Initiative, which will help fund the Aggies' growing athletics grant-in-aid program. UC Davis begins a four-year transition to Division I this fall, will start some competition in the Big West in 2004-05 and is scheduled for full Division I certification beginning in 2007-08.

UC Davis will compete in the Big West Conference in baseball, men's and women's basketball, men's and women's cross country, men's golf, men's and women's soccer, softball, men's and women's swimming & diving, men's and women's tennis, men's and women's track & field and women's volleyball. Football and women's rowing will continue to compete as an independent, men's and women's water polo will remain in the Western Water Polo Association and women's lacrosse will continue play in the Mountain Pacific Lacrosse League.

Women's gymnastics and men's wrestling – already classified as Division I programs – will continue their participation in the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation and Pacific-10 Conference, respectively.

Below are excerpts from the official campus release announcing the historic move to Division I:

UC DAVIS TO JOIN BIG WEST CONFERENCE

The University of California, Davis, will join the Big West Conference, moving from Division II to Division I of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

"After much thought and discussion, I have decided that UC Davis will accept the invitation to join the Big West Conference, a conference that includes our sister campuses of UC Irvine, UC Riverside and UC Santa Barbara," UC Davis Chancellor Larry Vanderhoef announced today (March 11, 2003).

"This step is necessary to preserve and improve the program we have. We are seeking, in an evolving landscape, firm ground upon which to continue and to enhance a program that is centered around the student-athlete and the teacher-coach."

Vanderhoef said that the Division I Big West Conference offers a better academic, philosophical and competitive "fit" than does Division II, where schools average 4,000 students compared to UC Davis' 22,000 undergrads and where former D-I competitors are dropping sports or moving to Division I. Eligibility rules are also more stringent at the Division I level than at Division II and are expected to become even stronger in the next few years.

Because the campus's current conference - the Division II California Collegiate Athletic Conference - offers competition for just 13 of the campus's 25 sports, UC Davis must compete in two divisions and six conferences. Two teams - wrestling and women's gymnastics - already compete at the Division I level.

The Big West conference would permit competition in 17 sports, but not football. UC Davis' football team would continue to compete as an independent but at the Division I-AA level.

Big West schools include the UC Irvine, Riverside and Santa Barbara campuses, as well as Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, University of the Pacific, University of Idaho, Utah State and the California State University Fullerton, Northridge and Long Beach campuses.

"Our formula for academic and athletic success at UC Davis can work within the Big West Conference and Division I athletics," said UC Davis Director of Athletics Greg Warzecka. "We will not change our model, but we might very well be able to play a leadership role in Division I in such a way that other institutions will look at how we organize, administer and fund our 25-sport intercollegiate athletics program."

ACADEMIC VALUES:

Vanderhoef said that specific recommendations from another Academic Senate committee and from the Academic Federation, as well as "seven inviolate principles" enumerated on the student-initiative ballot, would lead to policies that "will preserve the academic values that have guided our athletic program for decades."

In reaching his decision, Vanderhoef said he weighed "the many opinions, reports and facts that relate to this issue, including input from the Academic Senate, the Academic Federation, a vote by our undergraduate students, individual conversations, many written communications, and the various data sets that speak simply to where we are now and where we would be in the Big West Conference."

Groups formally voting on the issue included undergraduates, who approved the fee initiative 4,638 to 3,929; the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee, voting 38 to 1 in favor; the Academic Senate, voting 556 to 271 in opposition; the Athletic Administrative Advisory Committee (which includes faculty and students), voting 11-2, with one abstention, in favor.

The views of the long-time teacher-coaches were also weighed, Vanderhoef said.

"We have in our ranks many who lived with, built and espoused the virtues of Division II athletics," Vanderhoef said. "They are proud of their accomplishments, not the least of which is a significantly higher graduation rate for our athletes than for the campus at large - about 85 percent compared to 75 percent. Yet these teacher-coaches have come to know that we cannot preserve what we have if we stand still. They conclude that, of all the changes we could make, the affiliation with the Big West Conference, a group of universities very much like ourselves, is necessary and comes just in time."

UC Irvine Chancellor Ralph Cicerone, UC Riverside Chancellor France Cordova and UC Santa Barbara Chancellor Henry Yang in a March 4 letter encouraged Vanderhoef to consider UC Davis' addition to the Big West Conference. "(We) are committed to Division I athletics programs that are based on very high ideals that focus on student-athletes. . . . The Big West Conference is an excellent home for such programs," they wrote.

The three chancellors noted that the conference is "strongly California-centered," which makes it possible for student-athletes to travel to away games and matches "without sacrificing great lengths of time away from campus and classes." And such travel is relatively inexpensive, they added.

"The affiliation with the Big West Conference is a principled step in seeking to preserve the core values of a program that has been a model for the nation," Vanderhoef concluded in announcing his decision. "This is not about seeking 'bigger' or about 'growing the business.' Rather, this is about continuing to make available to our students another broad set of opportunities for participation in a meaningful out-of-class experience.

"This move to the Division I Big West Conference is the best and correct move for UC Davis. It is, in fact, our only responsible action."

TIMELINE TO DIVISION I

2003-04

Provisional First Year

- Compliance with all minimum contests and participation requirements for sports sponsorship set forth in Bylaw 20.9.3.3 (contests and number of participants).
- Submit a formal application and fee.
- Submit a revised strategic plan based on the previously submitted plan.
- Apply Division I legislation to the greatest extent possible.
- Attendance at the NCAA Convention.
- Attendance at an orientation session.
- Submit an annual report and updated strategic plan.
- Considered Division II in scheduling against Division I opponents, Division I against Division II opponents.
- The Campus Expansion Initiative takes effect, contributing an estimated total of $999,000 — toward athletics grants-in-aid.

2004-05

Provisional Second Year

- Full compliance with all Division I legislation and membership requirements, including scholarship minimums and Division I scheduling.
- Attendance at NCAA convention.
- Attendance at NCAA meeting at the convention to discuss issues impacting Division I.
- Submit an annual report and updated strategic plan by June 30 based on feedback received from the previous year.
- Considered Division I for scheduling against opponents.
- Total athletics grant-in-aid increases to approximately $2.5 million.
- The portion of the CEI fees designated for athletics increases to generate an estimated total of $2.03 million in grants-in-aid.

TIMELINE TO DIVISION I

2005-06

Provisional Third Year

- Attendance at the NCAA Convention.
- Attendance at a meeting to be conducted at the NCAA convention to discuss issues impacting Division I members. Institutional representatives required to attend the meeting are the CEO, AD, SWA, FAR, and Compliance Coordinator.
- Completion of an NCAA athletics certification orientation visit.
- Completion of a compliance review conducted by the national office and submission of a report with an institutional response of findings.
- Submit an annual report and updated strategic plan by June 30 based on feedback received from the previous year's annual report.
- The portion of the CEI fees designated for athletics increases to contribute an estimated total of $3.17 million for athletics grants-in-aid.

2006-07

Provisional Fourth Year

- Successfully complete an NCAA athletics certification self-study and evaluation visit.
- Attendance at the NCAA Convention.
- Attendance at a meeting conducted at the NCAA Convention to discuss issues impacting Division I members.
- Submit an annual report and updated strategic plan by June 30, 2007 based on feedback received from the previous years review.
- The CEI reaches its full implementation. The athletics-designated portion increases to generate an estimated total of $4.26 million in grants-in-aid.

2008-09

- All teams become eligible for at-large berths in the NCAA Championships. However, Big West Conference teams are not eligible for the conference's automatic berth.

2009-10

- All Big West Conference teams — except for men's basketball — become eligible for the conference's automatic berth in the NCAA Championships.

2015-16

- Men's basketball becomes eligible for the Big West's automatic berth in the NCAA Championships.

AGGIES IN THE POSTSEASON

UC Davis wrestling, women's gymnastics, men's water polo and women's water polo will continue to be eligible for conference and NCAA postseason play throughout the four-year transition period.

UC Davis Facilities

Schaal Aquatic Center will begin its first year of operation for swimming & diving and water polo.

Additionally, the Marya Welch Tennis Center will expand to 16 courts.

Note: all facility projections are estimates as of March 2003.

UC Davis Facilities

The Activities & Recreation Center (ARC), located adjacent to Recreation Hall, opens in spring of 2004. Rec Hall becomes more predominantly an event center, serving Aggie basketball and volleyball, as well as entertainment opportunities. Women's gymnastics will continue to compete at Recreation Hall, but will move its practice facility to Hickey Gymnasium.

UC Davis Facilities

The multi-use stadium opens on the northwest corner of campus, serving Aggie football and women's lacrosse, as well as other community events. Toomey Field becomes exclusively a track & field venue.

RECREATION HALL

The 7,800-seat Recreation Hall, now in its 26th year of operation, serves as both the practice venue and home site of UC Davis gymnastics.

Among the top on-campus facilities on the West Coast, the multi-purpose Rec Hall has hosted gymnastics championships for the NCAA, AIAW and USAG. The arena has also been the site for conference and NCAA championship events in basketball, women's volleyball and wrestling, as well as numerous high school athletic championships. In fact, Recreation Hall was selected as the host of the USA Gymnastics Collegiate Championships in April 2001.

Rec Hall also houses the campus' outstanding intramural sports department and serves as home to many intramural and club sports activities.

Until Sacramento's Arco Arena opened in the late 1980's, Recreation Hall was considered the area's premier venue for concert attractions. Acts ranging from Ani DiFranco to the World Wrestling Federation have performed here in recent years.

On a more formal level, the facility has hosted the UC Davis Distinguished Speakers series and the campus' annual commencement ceremonies. Furthermore, Rec Hall serves as annual venue for the university's commencement ceremonies and the Aggie Auction, the athletics department's gala fundraiser.

Recreation Hall was built with the help of donor support and funds allocated by the students themselves. It still provides students, faculty, staff and the community with an excellent recreational facility, complete with weight rooms, aerobics classes, racquetball and squash courts, and a jogging track. The main floor is frequently available for recreational use.

Construction is underway on the adjoining Activities & Recreation Center (ARC) – a project that will more than double the amenities available to the UC Davis student body. The completed ARC and renovated Rec Hall will also allow the Aggie gymnastics team to move its practice facility across campus to Lower Hickey Gym, almost doubling the team's training area.
