DINO BABERS

RUNNING BACKS/RECRUITING COORDINATOR

THIRD SEASON • HAWAII '84

Dino Babers is set to begin his third season as an assistant coach at UCLA. This will be his first year with the dual assignments of running backs coach and recruiting coordinator. He spent his first two seasons at UCLA in charge of wide receivers. Babers joined the Bruin staff in January of 2004 from the University of Pittsburgh, where he had coached running backs during the 2003 season.

In 2005, a core group of receivers emerged under Babers' guidance, Joe Cowan, Marcus Everett and Brandon Breazell. Each caught at least 24 passes and scored a combined total of nine touchdowns while helping to make up for the void left due to the season-ending injury to Junior Taylor in the season's third game. True freshman Gavin Ketchum contributed 11 catches and a score. Matt Willis and Andrew Baumgartner also caught scoring passes.

In 2004, his first season with the Bruins, Craig Bragg became UCLA's career receptions leader and Junior Taylor enjoyed his best season as a Bruin. The Bruins recorded 22 touchdown receptions in '04, almost doubling the total of the previous season (12).

In 2001 and 2002, Babers, 45, served as offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Texas A&M.

Prior to Texas A&M, Babers was an assistant with the Arizona Wildcats for six seasons (1995-2000) under Dick Tomey, coaching the receivers (1995-96), running backs (1997) and quarterbacks (1998-2000). He assumed the duties of assistant head coach for the 1996-97 seasons before being promoted to the offensive coordinator post, which he held from 1998-2000.

During his Arizona tenure, the Wildcats averaged a Pac-10 best 471.9 yards in total offense during the 1999 season, ranking third nationally in that category. In his first year as offensive coordinator (1998), Arizona compiled a record of 12-1 and produced a 1,000-yard rusher, two 1,000-yard passers and a pair of receivers who combined for 121 receptions.

Babers' other coaching posts include positions at San Diego State (1994, receivers), Purdue (1991-93, receivers), Northern Arizona (1990, special teams coordinator and defensive backs), UNLV (1988-89, special teams coordinator and running backs) and Eastern Illinois (1987, running backs).

Babers graduated from the University of Hawaii in 1984 with a Bachelor's degree in education. He started at three different positions for the Warriors — outside linebacker, strong safety and running back — and earned first-team All-WAC Academic honors. As a senior he was Hawaii's special teams captain and leading rusher.

Babers played in the Canadian Football League during the 1984 season before injury ended his playing career. He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Hawaii (1984) and Arizona State (1985-86).

Bullough has been a member of two staffs on which the head coach earned "Coach of the Year" honors. In 2001, Dick Jauron was named NFL Coach of the Year after leading the Bears to a 13-3 record (Chicago was 4-12 in the season prior to that staff's arrival). In 2005, Western Michigan improved from 1-10 to 7-4, the biggest turnaround in MAC history, and first-year head coach Bill Cubit was named MAC Coach of the Year.

Bullough has coached numerous players to post-season honors. In 2005, he was linebackers coach at Western Michigan and Ameer Ismail earned first-team All-MAC honors while ranking sixth (tied) nationally with 20 tackles for loss and 34th with eight sacks. In 2004, the new Bruin coach worked as linebackers coach and special teams coordinator at Lake Forest College.

For the five previous seasons (1999-03), Bullough (BULL-ah) coached every defensive position and special teams on the staff of the Chicago Bears. During the entire five seasons, he was assistant special teams coach, tutoring Larry Whigham and Jerry Azumah to the Pro Bowl.

A two-time All-Big Ten selection (first team in 1991 and second in 1990) and second-team All-American linebacker at Michigan State University, he set an MSU single-season record with 175 tackles. He was a member of three bowl championship teams, including the 1987 Rose Bowl squad, and MSU won two Big Ten titles during his career. Bullough was selected in the eighth round of the 1992 NFL draft by the Philadelphia Eagles and had a five-year career in the National Football League. He played for the Miami Dolphins (1993-95) and attended camps with the Eagles (1992) and Indianapolis Colts (1996). He began his coaching career at his alma mater, assisting with defensive backs in 1997 and the offensive line in 1998.

His father, Henry, rose from the steel mills of Canton, OH, to become known as the "Doctor of Defense" as an NFL defensive coordinator for 23 years for multiple teams. He served as the head coach of the Buffalo Bills for parts of the 1985 and 1986 seasons. Henry earned a Super Bowl championship ring as an assistant coach with the Colts in 1970 and won national collegiate football championships at Michigan State, as a player in 1952 and as the defensive coordinator of the Spartans' 1965 and 1966 teams.

Jim Colletto, who has 39 years of combined experience coaching in college and the NFL, is in his first season as offensive line coach. Colletto, who helped the Baltimore Ravens win Super Bowl XXXV and has 11 years of experience as a collegiate head coach, is also the assistant head coach.

Colletto, a former UCLA football and baseball player and Bruin assistant coach, spent the 2005 season as offensive line coach for the Oakland Raiders. Prior to joining the Raiders, Colletto coached the offensive line of the Baltimore Ravens for six seasons. His offensive line corps helped Baltimore capture the NFL rushing title in 2003 with 2,669 yards (nearly 170 yards per game) and enabled running back Jamal Lewis to record the second-best rushing total in NFL history (2,066 yards) and become the fifth running back in league annals to run for over 2,000 yards. Colletto coached an offensive line that saw the Ravens break the team rushing record twice, first in 2000 when they won Super Bowl XXXV and again in 2003. Overall, Baltimore averaged over 4.0 yards per carry in five of his six seasons as offensive line coach.

Among his 32 years of experience on the collegiate level are 11 as a head coach – six at Purdue (1991-96) and five at Cal State Fullerton (1975-79). In his six years at Purdue, the Boilermakers rushed for at least 1,900 yards on five occasions and accounted for over 4,000 yards total offense in each of his final four years. He spent 17 seasons as an offensive coordinator, including his six as head coach at Purdue. That final year (1984) was the only time that Purdue defeated Ohio State, Michigan and Notre Dame in the same season. He also served stints at UCLA (1967-68 and 1980-81), Brown (1969), Xavier of Ohio (1970-71) and Pacific (1972-74). He was the head freshman team coach in 1967 and worked with all positions on the varsity and handled the scout team in 1968 at UCLA. He coached the offensive line at Brown, Xavier and Pacific. He coached the Bruin offensive tackles and tight ends (including All-Americans Luis Sharpe and Tim Wrightman) in 1980 and 1981.

Colletto played both football and baseball at UCLA, where he was an All-League defensive end and captain of the Bruin team that beat Michigan State in the 1966 Rose Bowl. He led the Bruins in rushing as a sophomore fullback in 1963 and won the Paul I. Wellman Award for All-Around Excellence in 1964. In baseball, he was a two-time all-league selection, posted a .306 career batting average and was inducted into the UCLA Baseball Hall of Fame in 2000.

JIM SVOBODA

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/QUARTERBACKS
THIRD SEASON • NORTHWESTERN (IA) COLLEGE '83

Jim Svoboda, architect of some of the nation's most prolific scoring teams during his coaching career, is in his third season at UCLA and this will be his first as offensive coordinator. He spent his first two seasons as UCLA's quarterbacks coach.

"Jim possesses an outstanding offensive mind and has a great feel for the game," said Bruin head coach Karl Dorrell when elevating Svoboda to the coordinator's job. "He has done a tremendous job of working with our quarterbacks in his first two seasons with us and did a fantastic job as a coordinator prior to coming to UCLA. I know our offense will continue to flourish under his supervision."

Svoboda, a finalist for the Frank Broyles Assistant Coach of the Year award in 2005, helped guide quarterback Drew Olson to a record-setting senior season. Olson ranked among the national leaders in passing efficiency (fifth), touchdown passes (second) and total offense (26th). A finalist for the Davey O'Brien and Johnny Unitas quarterback awards in 2005, Olson set several school records, including touchdown passes (34) in a season, most consecutive passes without an interception in a season (199) and touchdown passes in a game (six). Current Bruin quarterbacks Ben Olson, Pat Cowan and Osaar Rasshan have each continued to make steady progress in the system heading toward the Fall.

In 2004, quarterback Drew Olson thrived under Svoboda's tutelage. Olson ranked fourth in the Pac-10 Conference in passing efficiency and his 20 touchdown passes ranked fifth on UCLA's all-time single-season list. Olson's 2,671 yards of total offense ranked sixth on that single-season list. His total of eight touchdown passes in a two-game span tied another record.

Svoboda, a past winner of the Division II Offensive Coordinator of the Year award, came to UCLA after spending the previous 10 seasons as the offensive coordinator/quarterbacks coach at Northwest Missouri State University in Maryville, MO. During his time at NWMSU, the Bearcats won national championships in 1998 and 1999 while his offensive units ranked among the most potent in NCAA Division II. In addition, his teams broke more than 50 individual and team offensive records during his tenure.

Svoboda's 1998 and 2000 offensive units led all of Division II in scoring. In 2000, the Bearcat offense topped the nation by scoring 537 points, averaging 48.8 points per game. The squad also ranked third nationally in total offense with a mark of 492.4 yards a game. In 1998, the Bearcats averaged conference-best marks of 46.4 points and 482.4 yards per contest and won 15 games. The passing average of 283.3 yards per game also led the league that season.

NWMSU had final national rankings of second, third, second, fourth and first between 1996 and 2000 with a record of 63-5 and five MIAA conference titles. In a six-year span (1996-2001), his offenses averaged over 40 points and 450 yards of total offense. He won six different conference championships with four different quarterbacks and a pair of national championships with different signal callers. In addition, quarterback Travis Miles set an NCAA record in October of 2000 by completing 21 of 23 passes for 305 yards, including 18 consecutive completions.

During his time at Northwest Missouri, Svoboda had six of his offensive players either drafted or signed by NFL teams, including offensive tackle Seth Wand, a third-round pick of the Houston Texans in the 2003 NFL draft and quarterback Chris Greisen, a seventh-round selection by Arizona in 1999. Among the numerous post-season honors earned by players coached by Svoboda are: All-America, National Player of the Year and Conference MVP. In addition, his players have made appearances in the Hula Bowl, Senior Bowl and East-West Shrine Games.

Prior to joining the staff at Northwest Missouri, Svoboda was the head coach and offensive coordinator at Nebraska Wesleyan University (Lincoln, NE). He compiled a 52-19 record (.732 winning percentage) in seven seasons at Wesleyan from 1987-93 and established over 30 team and individual offensive records. He was named the Nebraska-Iowa Athletic Conference Coach of the Year following the 1988, 1989 and 1990 seasons and his teams were ranked among the nation's top five in the 1990, 1991 and 1992 campaigns.

Svoboda, a 1983 graduate of Northwestern (Orange City, IA) College (he played running back), has also served as running backs coach at Eastern New Mexico (Portales, NM) University (1985-86), assistant football coach at Nebraska Wesleyan (1986), offensive line/strength coach at Dana (Blair, NE) College (1984-85) and running backs coach at his alma mater (1983). "Every team we field spends time in the weight room towards the end of strength, flexibility, power, and most importantly, injury prevention," said Associate Athletic Director Glenn Toth, who oversees this area, at the time of Kreis' hiring. "We are both pleased and fortunate to have hired an individual with the demonstrated skill, experience and achievement as Doc Kreis.

Not only a technical expert, Doc's reputation as a motivator, communicator, and mentor to student-athletes will serve us well in our continuing efforts to improve our athletic eminence."

On June 1, 2003, Kreis was inducted into the U.S.A. Strength & Conditioning Coaches Hall of Fame. He was selected in the Collegiate category by the Hall of Fame Board of Directors. A plaque commemorating the honor is displayed at the York Barbell Museum in York, PA.

Prior to arriving at UCLA, Kreis spent over 10 years as an assistant athletic director and the head coach for speed-strength and conditioning at the University of Colorado. He joined the CU staff in January of 1993.

The Professional Football Strength and Conditioning Coaches Society named Kreis the National Collegiate Strength Coach of the Year on three different occasions, in 1991-92, 1994-95 and 1995-96.

Kreis was named the recipient of the 1995 Stan Jones Award, having met the criteria in six strength areas: performance of Colorado's athletic teams (placing in the top 10 of the Sears Directors Cup standings); the demonstration of high standards and discipline in strength and conditioning; and unanimous ratification from the ISSA's Board of Directors. Kreis was the first-ever recipient of the award, which honors the legendary strength coach after whom it is named.
